Christmas host guide

Prepare the game

Print all three pages at 100% on A4 landscape paper. Cut the four cards on page one apart. Keep page two as the caller sheet and page three as the host guide. Provide large, age-appropriate counters.

How to play

1. Show the eight caller pictures and agree the labels. In this set, the sock represents Stocking and the deer represents Reindeer. These are picture symbols for the game, not identification photographs.
2. Give each player a card, mark FREE and demonstrate a winning line of three. Decide whether rows, columns and diagonals all count, and agree how to handle a tie.
3. Shuffle the eight caller tiles or matching word slips. Draw one at a time, say its exact label and show the picture. Keep every called item aside.
4. Check any claimed winning line against the call record. Different arrangements can still win together. Clear the cards and shuffle the calls for a fresh round.

A note on shared vocabulary

Every card contains the same eight pictures in a different order. Line wins can tie; full-house games finish together. For more players, use pairs or extra copies and explain shared layouts.

Caller words and suggested prompts

Tree: Find Tree: the decorated evergreen picture.

Star: Find Star: the pointed star symbol.

Gift: Find Gift: a wrapped present.

Bell: Find Bell: something that can ring.

Stocking: Find Stocking: the sock picture in our game.

Snowman: Find Snowman: a character made from snow.

Candle: Find Candle: the small wax light in our set.

Reindeer: Find Reindeer: the deer picture in our game.

Make it easier

Show the picture with each direct label. Model the distinction between the whole tree and the separate star picture. Players can point rather than read aloud.

Another round

Let a player be the caller, or use the suggested clues after everyone knows the intended labels. Ask players to describe an object without naming it.

For a different winter theme or a group that does not celebrate Christmas, choose a suitable vocabulary list in the text generator on the pack webpage. The fixed picture starter keeps its eight Christmas-themed items.
